Marcia Hart

Marcia was born in Memphis, Tennessee. She moved to Charlotte, North Carolina, with her parents in January 1964. Currently she lives with her husband Guy and their feline furbaby Heidi near Midland, North Carolina.

Marcia comes from an artistic family. Her mother and several siblings are artists. Marcia has always known that she wanted to be an artist. When she was in third grade, she began taking summer and Saturday lessons at the Memphis Academy of Art (now called the Memphis College of Art) in Memphis, Tennessee. This art instruction was followed by classes at the Mint Museum of Art in Charlotte, North Carolina, plus all the art classes she could take in junior and senior high school. She holds a BA degree in Art (Art History concentration) from Furman University in Greenville, South Carolina. She took graduate courses in Art History at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill.

She loves travel, and while in college, she spent an academic term in Paris, France. She has been to several museums, including the Mint Museum (Charlotte, NC), High Museum (Atlanta, GA), Ackland Museum (Chapel Hill, NC), North Carolina Museum of Art (Raleigh, NC), Brooks Art Gallery (Memphis, TN), Metropolitan Museum of Art (NYC), Museum of Modern Art (NYC), Whitney Museum (NYC), National Gallery of Art (Washington, DC), Corcoran Gallery (Washington, DC), Hirshhorn Museum (Washington, DC), Louvre (Paris, France), Rijksmuseum (Amsterdam, Netherlands), and the Van Gogh Museum (Amsterdam, Netherlands).

Marcia desires to bring joy to others through her artistic creations. Although she believes that art can be a powerful conveyor for all kinds of emotions, she likes making art with which she could comfortably live. She enjoys drawing (pencil, pen-and-ink), printmaking, pastels, painting (acrylic), and digital art. She especially likes drawing historic architecture.
